HOUSE RESPONDS TO
PLEAS FOR SPEED

Military Appropriation Bill
Among Most Important Measures Yet to Be Acted On.

(International News Service.)

Washington, April 25.—After consistently refusing for three months to yield to executive pleas for speed, the house has today struck a gait that might allow adjournment by late mid-summer. The announced determination of republicans to "stay in session continuously" for the duration of the war has been forgotten, and with the approach of the fall elections they have become almost as anxious to get away from Washington as the democrats.

The administration is not without a hand in the change of front on the part of the house. Through the rules committee, a majority of whose members are democrats, it has submitted and carries limiting debate and forcing speedy passage of administration measures. The rules committee is expected to become increasingly active as the session goes on.

The most important measure still to be considered by the house is the $8,000,000,000 military appropriation bill. This bill will take some time to pass, but there will be no disposition on the part of any member to stand in the way of any appropriation deemed by the war department to be essential to the successful conduct of the war.

Two other measures that together will consume almost a month of discussion are the water power bill and the oil land leasing bill. To these no considerable opposition has developed, although Chairman Ferris, of the public lands committee, let it be known that the administration will fight the relief provision of the oil bill, as reported by his committee.

The passage of the $1,000,000,000 naval appropriation bill in two days, the silver bill in two hours and of fourteen military bills within one day all are indications of the growing desire to bring the session to a speedy conclusion. Speaker Clark's prediction that congress would adjourn Sept. 1 was made when the house was in a particularly slow mood. A few more weeks of the present speeding up will make a revision of the speaker's prophecy necessary.

GERMAN CHANCELLOR
SUES BERLIN PAPER

Article Attacking High Official's Social Conduct
Basis of Suit.

(Associated Press.)

London, April 25.—Count Von Hertling, the imperial German chancellor, according to an Exchange Telegram dispatch from Copenhagen, is officially reported to have brought a suit against the Deutsche Zeitung of Berlin for an article published Wednesday in which Dr. Von Kuehlmann, the German foreign secretary, and Count Czernin, the former Austrian foreign secretary, were attacked. The newspaper asserted that the two statesmen, in the negotiations at Bucharest acted in a manner which abused their countries. Secretary Von Kuehlmann, it was represented, was seen often with a well-known member of the underworld, while Count Czernin every evening visited a theater where dancing girls were among the performers.

The German liberal newspapers, it is added, sharply criticized the Deutsche Zeitung, saying that Dr. Von Kuehlmann has not done anything worse than is often witnessed by the Berlin population when the annual meetings of peasants are held in the German capital.

Crimeans and Others
Would Join the Ukraine

(Associated Press.)

Amsterdam, April 25.—A deputation from the Crimea has arrived at Kiev to urge on the Ukrainian rada the incorporation of the Crimea into the Ukraine, according to a dispatch from Kiev to the Lokai Anzeiger of Berlin by way of Vienna. The government of Minsk and the district of Homel also have sent deputations requesting union with the Ukraine.

The German official statement of Wednesday said that German troops had reached Simferopol, capital of the Crimea. A great part of the government of Minsk has been under German control for some time, as has Homel.

SIXTEEN LYNCHINGS
SINCE U. S. ENTERED WAR

Protests Sent to Governors of Tennessee and Louisiana and Chambers of Commerce.

(Associated Press.)

New York, April 25.—Telegrams protesting against recent lynchings in Louisiana and Tennessee were made public here today by John R. Shillady, secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, after having been sent to Gov. Pleasant, of Louisiana, and the members of commerce of Baton Rouge and Monroe, La., and to Gov. Rye and the chambers of commerce of Chattanooga, Nashville, Knoxville and Memphis, Tenn.

Eleven negroes have been lynched without trial in Louisiana since America entered the war, the message cites, and five in Tennessee, three of the Tennessee victims having been burned and tortured at the stake before death. The telegram to Gov. Pleasant urges that lynchings be apprehended, that inquiries be made to determine whether sheriffs exercised their full powers, that the governor issue a proclamation calling on citizens to obey the law and that the governor request President Wilson to "reinforce your appeal by a statement to the nation."

The message concludes: "America's prestige abroad and her national morale at home demand vigorous, determined and patriotic action."

RUN? NOT GROSSETTI!

French General Was So Fat He Couldn't and So Brave He Wouldn't.
And He Didn't.

(By Milton Bronner.)

Washington.—A man so fat he couldn't run and so brave he wouldn't run, describes a Frenchman, recently dead, who is the hero of this semi-comic story of the war.

His name was Grossetti. He was a general in the French army that fought in the first great battle of Ypres. When they buried him the other day, Gen. Dubail, governor of Paris, called him the bravest of the brave.

Grossetti, fat, humorous, disregarding personal danger, was the idol of his simple-hearted poilus. During the terrible first stages of the battle of Ypres some of his troops started to retreat. Grossetti met them in the shell-torn street.

"Hey, what do you propose to do with me?" he called. "As you see, I am too fat to run away."

He got a camp stool and plumped himself on it. The men kept filing past him. Shells cracked all around him.

"Unlucky me!" he soliloquized aloud. "I cannot retire. Is this really a retreat? Are they thinking of leaving their old general in the lurch?"

The men stopped. His bravery was contagious. They cheered him. The retreat was ended. Instead they began an advance.

One of Sir John French's staff officers arrived to know what Grossetti was going to do, as his retirement would also compel the retreat of the British.

"You can tell Gen. French that I am too fat to be able to retreat."

And he didn't. The day was saved.

Take Care of Your Tires

America's greatest need is for ships—more ships.

Every available vessel is being utilized in government service.

Many ships that have been carrying rubber from Sumatra and Brazil have been taken for active transport duty. The number now left to bring rubber to this country is extremely limited.

This will necessarily force a temporary curtailment of tire production.

So, make the most of the tires you have.

Use good tires.

Take good care of them. Keep them in perfect repair. See that they are properly inflated.

Increase their mileage by careful driving. Keep out of car tracks and away from bumps. Don't scrape the curb or apply brakes too suddenly.

Get every mile your tires have in them.

Only in that way can you be assured of your car's continuous service—and remember, your car is a vital war-time necessity.

So again,

—take care of your tires.

The Duke of Wellington

often called the "iron duke," showed his courage and strong will at Waterloo when he helped defeat Napoleon. It takes greater courage, vim, vigor and lasting qualities to win the battle today in the front-line trenches than it did in olden times. Energy is a natural outpouring of a healthy body. It does not spring up in a night. Build up that which Nature has given you by taking a compound of iron, recently compounded by Dr. Pierce, and named by him "Ironic." This iron-ionic tablet is easily taken up by the blood.

The prime necessity of life is health. Inject red blood into your arteries and become efficient. Success often disappears for lack of iron. Take the average man and woman on the streets, for example. Watch them go plodding along, no spring, no elasticity, no vim. What one needs is spirit, energy, the power to force one's self into action. If you try "Ironic" tablets, the brain responds to the new blood in circulation; the body is ready to fight against stagnation, which holds you in bondage. You gain in vim, vigor, vitality. Try it now. Don't wait. Today is the day to begin taking "Ironic" tablets. A little "pép," and you laugh and you live. A little energy saves the day. "Ironic" tablets make rich red blood. With good red blood comes courage, then comes success, which leads to more and more success. Dr. Pierce's "Ironic" tablets are to be had in 60 cent vials at most drug stores. If you wish to test them send 10 cents to the Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., and get a trial package.
